Also, start-ups such as UrbanClap, Simpl, eWards, etc. were active recruiters as well.

Students were provided with Learn-cum-Work opportunities by Accenture Solutions Pvt. Ltd. (in collaboration with XLRI).

Continuing the tradition, the Campus Placement Cell has been able to put forward extremely promising placement statistics this academic year as well. Till now, out of the 90+ students who have shown interest in placements, 48 offers have been made. In this academic year, the average pay-package stands at 9.33 lakh per annum currently. The highest salary offered in terms of base pay, by Bain & Company (Rs 15.8 LPA) and in terms of CTC, by Boston Consulting Group

(Rs 19.8 LPA). In terms of the number of hires, Bain & Company, Inshorts and BNED Loudcloud extended 3 offers each.

In addition, the CPC continues to offer opportunities for alumni of St. Stephen's College. This year, we managed process of companies such as HT Media, American Express, Pearson, Outline India and CEB Gartner which were interested in hiring alumni.

Besides placements, in the first week of September 2017, the CPC organized 'The Career Awareness Week' with the aim of helping students decide the right career path for themselves. It included talks which catered to many career opportunities such as actuarial science, finance, even 2 sessions in entrepreneurship by Grofers and Talerang, legislative research, social development, media outreach and travel writing. The event saw active participation from students. The interactive sessions were conducted by professionals and entrepreneurs among the best in the industry. The workshops which followed also provided insights and guidance to the students on how to give their desired career a head-start.

Talks by various institutes of India and on various topics such as career advisors (such as Times Pro Group), education sector (Educational Initiatives) and non-profit organisations (such as Teach for India) were also organized. Information sessions on scholarships (such as Schwarzmann Scholarship), Vedica Scholars for Women Programme (VSPW) and fellowships (such as Gandhi fellowship, Young India Fellowship and that offered by International Innovation Corps) were also scheduled for the benefit of the students.

The first week of February 2018 saw the commencement of the Internship fair 2018. This year as well there was a large number of companies for recruiting interns. Some of the larger companies that recruited from campus were JSW, Deutsche Bank, Google, Harvard SAI, Indospirit Group of Companies and Plus Capital. Currently 17 students have been offered Internships and there are many more companies visiting campus for the purpose of hiring interns.
